

Flashback Flood

LIVING ROOM - #1

Story

This is an old house your family has lived in for generations. The floors creak when you walk along them, and the doorways are marked with the heights of your children who grew up here. There's always a faint smell of cumin, tickling your nose with memories of the happy family that once lived here.

Now you live alone. How did you end up here? You thought the cumin-coded memories would last a lifetime. You look outside the window. It's cloudy, and rain begins to pour. You decide to make the most of it, bringing a cup of tea and your favorite book to sit by the fire with. Despite your favorite comforts, you can't help but feel... something is wrong.

Your stomach sinks. Your eyes blur. You take a deep breath and try to read your book. But something is wrong. Something is wrong. You can't make out the words.

Puzzle

“WXUQRQWKHUDGLR”

a → d

Enter solution into the Living Room code checker.

KITCHEN - #2

Story

The radio! Maybe music will calm your nerves. You think of dancing with your family. You walk to the kitchen and turn the radio on. It plays your favorite song, and for a moment - you dance. You sway, you twirl, you even shimmy.

But then: THUNDER STRIKES! The lights flicker! The rain pours! A HURRICANE WARNING sounds!

You need to get the emergency hurricane kit from the pantry, but you can't remember the code to remove the baby lock on the door. What is that dang code again?

Puzzle

His voice will set you free.

Enter solution into the Kitchen code checker.

PANTRY - #3

Story

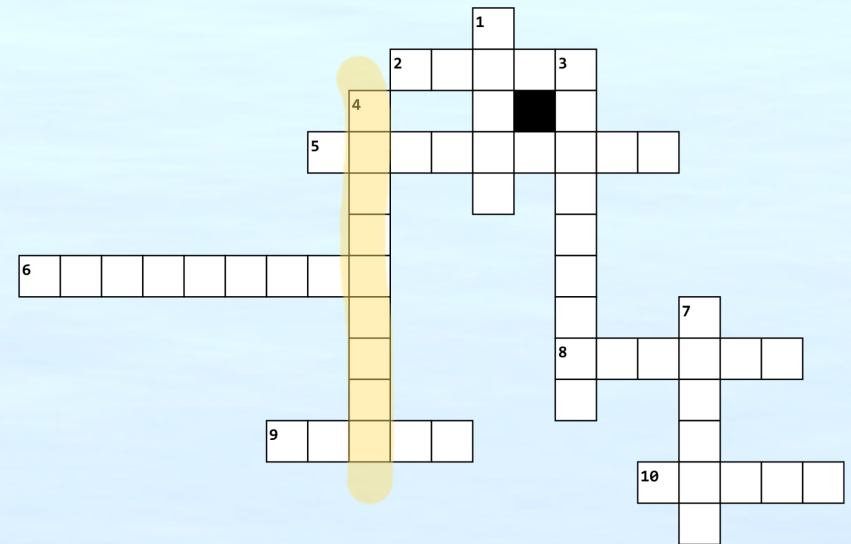

You obtain photo piece 1.

The baby lock on the pantry clicks open. Inside, you find canned goods, a lockbox with the emergency hurricane kit, and a box of cereal with a partially solved CROSSWORD PUZZLE on the back of it.

You dip your hand into the cereal box and pull out a small cheerio. You raise the tiny torus to your dry, aged lips. Suddenly, you're forty again, eating cereal with your children before school. Your little Amaia stares at the back of the cereal box, thinking. You come behind her to see a partially solved crossword puzzle. She's spelled a word incorrectly, but she got the answer right. You could not be more proud. Then, a drop of rain lands on your skin, sending chills down your spine.

The cereal box memory fades into the current crossword in front of you. Drops fall onto it, blurring the answers.

Puzzle

Across

- 2. daughter
- 5. a rapid storm
- 6. your memory isn't as good as it used to be
- 8. exit
- 9. fast
- 10. water

Down

- 1. listen closely to the...
- 3. all alone
- 4. it was always her favorite
- 7. tight-knit

Enter solution into the Pantry code checker.

OFFICE - #4

Story

You obtain photo piece 2.

You enter the highlighted word into the lockbox code and it clicks open. Inside, there's a tarp, and a couple of granola bars, with a hatchet in a case that is locked.

Then, a photo slips out. It's from Amaia's wedding. It's one of the proudest memories of your life.

But then, water drips, and blurs the date on the photo. What was her wedding anniversary again?

Puzzle

Place 1-9 digits in a box, so that no digit is repeated in any row, column, or 3x3 region.

2		4		6	3
	3		2
4		3		1
	2		4		6
			6	2
	4

Enter solution into the Office code checker.

BEDROOM - #5

Story

You obtain photo piece 3.

You enter the anniversary into the hatchet lock and take the hatchet out. Just in time. You look down. Water surrounds your feet. The house is beginning to flood!

Now, the only way out is up. Maybe you should call your kids and ask for help. What are their phone numbers again? You close your eyes and try to envision them, but you can't remember the area code.

The last time you talked to your Amaia was at her wedding. You remember writing her a letter - the last letter. Maybe something in there will help you remember.

Puzzle

B	A	G	S	E	J	U	T	F	I	A
R	T	O	E	S	P	L	H	L	N	M
I	T	O	P	T	I	I	I	O	R	A
E	A	M	O	E	E	O	N	N	O	I
L	L	A	P	B	A	N	K	E	R	A

My Dear Child,

I am eternally joyful that you have found your partner for life. I hope this love with Flor is lasting. I hope you care for her the way Gabriella cares for Tom, or the way Mom cared for me. Don't make the mistakes I made. And please, seat me next to Esteban and Julio at the wedding! I am so proud of you, my little A.

*Love always,
Dad*

Enter solution into the Bedroom code checker.

ATTIC - #6

Story

You obtain photo piece 4.

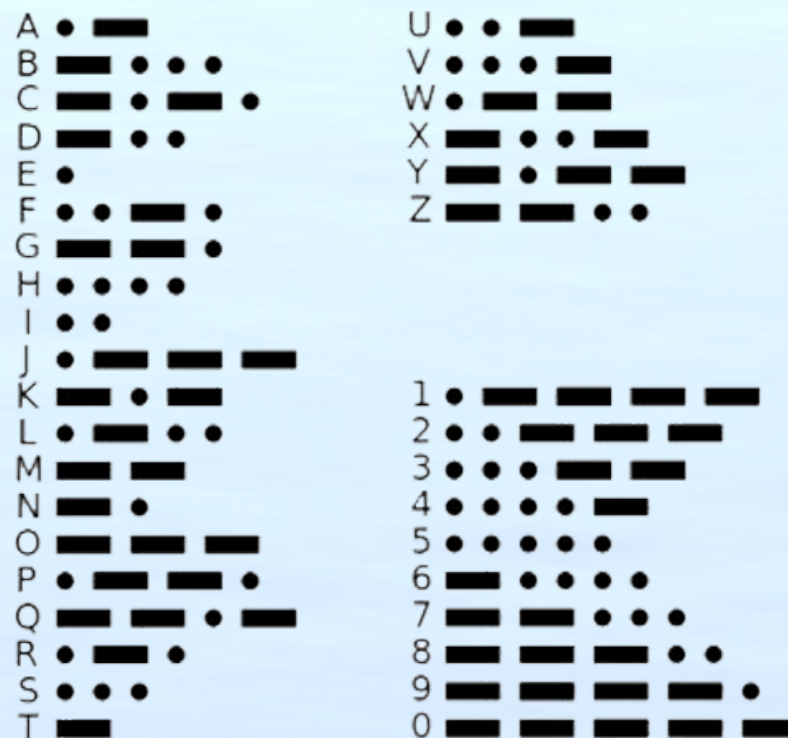

You call your little Amaia, but you get her voicemail. To make matters worse, the service cuts in and out. The wind howls, trees bend, and the flood rises. You can only hear every other word. You use your words carefully:

"Amaia, I love you. I love you. Tell your siblings I love them too."

With the crack of thunder, a TREE falls through the roof, crashing into the attic. Your phone drops into the water and fizzes. You begin to sob.

How will you get out of here? Maybe you won't. What will you do with your final moments?

Puzzle

Enter solution into the Attic code checker.

OUTSIDE - #7

Story

You obtain photo piece 5.

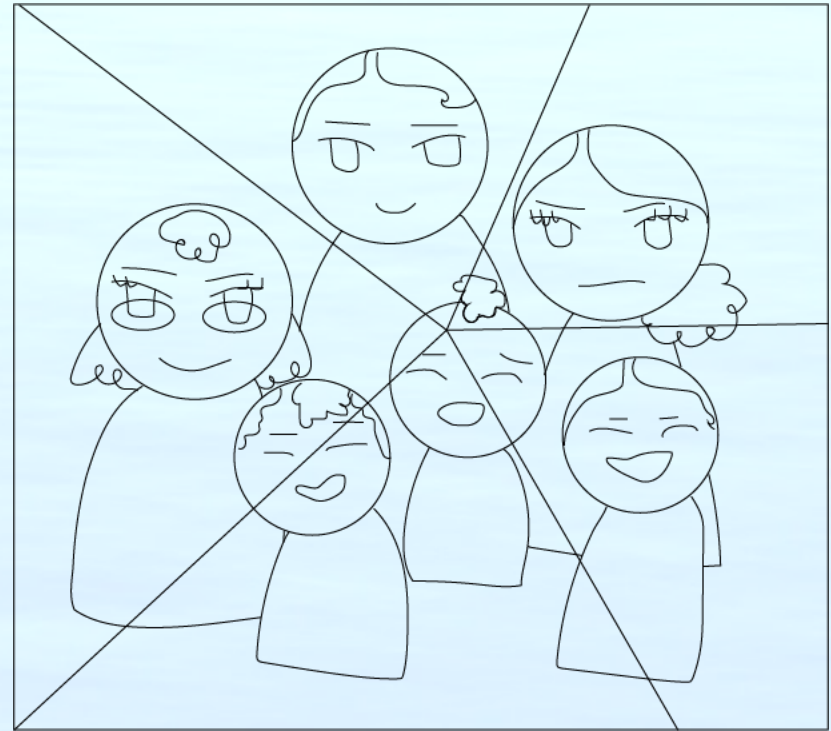

It felt impossible, but you know what you have to do. You remember it's all for them. You hold the photo tightly to your chest, and say a final prayer.

But then, you hear a nearing motor roaring through the storm.

"Dad! Dad! Are you there?"

You look out the attic window. Amaia has come to rescue you! You take your hatchet and break through the window. You leave the house, and escape the hurricane.

Congratulations! You outran the hurricane

FLASHBACK FLOOD

The only way to escape is through your memories.

A hurricane-themed escape room by Ashley, Madeline, Despoina, & Whit.

Flashback Flood is a third-person escape room where you play as an elderly man who reminisces on his life as he attempts to escape a hurricane. Solve the puzzles to get to higher ground before the flood takes it all away.

RULES

Intro:

You are an old man living alone in your family's generational home, when a hurricane warning hits. Can you stay focused enough to make it out in time? Or will you freeze under pressure?

Materials:

1. Code Checker
2. Game Board: Clue Dollhouse, House Doorframe, & Doors (Living Room, Kitchen, Pantry, Office, Bedroom, & Attic)
3. 5 Black Pieces of Family Portrait

Setup:

Place all doors atop their respective rooms within the dollhouse.

Place the black portrait pieces face down to see the numbers 1 - 5.

Open Puzzle #1 in the living room.

Goal:

Escape through the attic before the house completely floods!

Gameplay:

Use the booklet to follow along with the story.

Work with your teammates to try to solve the puzzles. When ready, check the puzzles on the online code checker to move to the next room.

Ending:

If you can make it to the attic with your hatchet, you can escape the flood in time! Otherwise, you and your memories will be lost to the hurricane.

